I come alive when I speak! Communicating is my purpose and passion. I found a new lover—"Public Speaking." Verbally speaking and communicating words in writing are ways I help people gain a greater understanding and perspective of who they are.

Ce Ce Ferrari's experience of being a teenage mother, former Police Officer, Mega-watt Radio Personality, and an Author has shaped her to become a prolific speaker. She's knowledgeable, fun, witty, and entertaining when discussing religion, politics, relationships, spirituality, sexuality and much more! She will have you laughing and crying as she speaks from her heart. She loves to share stories about how she went from scamming what she thought were free cocktails to becoming her own best friend and getting into the driver seat of her life. Her personal stories of her darkest moments in her life gives the listener the power to say, "If Ce Ce can change, I can too!"

"Ce Ce Ferrari's truths cut like surgical steel."—Timothy Madden

AUTHOR

Ce Ce's books are for men, women and teenagers who want to be daring and live a life that's not defined by what their family, culture, or religion dictates.

Trump Divine Intervention or Not?, available now on Amazon.com, weaves spirituality into politics to show how we have the perfect presidential candidates for our necessary growth and transformation. We're all guilty of being hypocrites, liars and racists as we bash Hillary and Trump as the villains.

Ce Ce Ferrari highlights biases from both democrats and republicans. We aren't in trouble because of who may become president we're in trouble because of who we the people are collectively.

Trump and Hillary are simply mirrors of who we the people are. Change isn't always pretty however we get what we need. Has the bombastic Trump been divinely selected to force us to make necessary changes?

The soon to be released Buy Your Own Damn Cocktail memoir begins with a young girl growing up under the watchful eye and suppression of a Jehovah's Witness mother. While trying to blossom into the megawatt personality she was meant to be, Ce Ce Monroe is always dealing with oppressive relatives, the judgment dictated by Kingdom Hall principles, and a dad who is quietly strong but never rocks the family boat.

With the realization that she is independent, worthy, and spiritually whole, Ce Ce grows into a woman she respects. Her light is shining brightly as her story moves her higher. In a real sense, her story is every person's story. Our transformation is finding out who we are and what we mean in relation to the universe. Lucky is the person who can enjoy the ride as much as Ce Ce does.

In the upcoming My Letter to President Trump, Ce Ce collects letters from Americans who are willing to put political affiliation aside and be of service, and who are going the extra mile to help their fellow Americans.

LONG BIO

Ce Ce Ferrari, America's Hottest Thought Provoking Speaker and Author, is an expert with helping people become emotionally mature and emotionally intelligent. She uses spirituality as the foundation to help people heal in all situations, which helps them learn the power of taking personal responsibility. Adults who are emotionally mature and emotionally intelligent are able to discuss politics, religion, sex and any subject with love and ease because emotional maturity and emotional intelligence comes from a place of understanding, sharing, and harmony rather than the need to control and be right. When Ce Ce Ferrari enters a room, heads move like they're doing a human head wave. Bold, unique and brilliant are just a few words to describe this dynamic woman. She was raised in Miami, Florida. She left the sunshine state in 1990 and headed for the glitz of Los Angeles California. She now resides in Southern California.

At 17 she married her first puppy love and four months later she was pregnant. She thought getting married would give her more freedom than living with her fanatic Jehovah's Witness mother. Being a teen mom added confusion and responsibility. She had difficulty coping because she married a man who was a dead-beat dad.

With no child support from the father of her son, she sought out ways to make money to care for herself and her child. She became a Police Officer for Miami Metro Dade Police Department and worked patrol and vice.

Wearing the silver badge and toting a gun didn't whet her appetite so she went to broadcasting school and became a radio personality. She worked for Miami radio stations Hot 105, Power 96 and Y-100. She later became a radio personality for FM-92 in Los Angeles, California.

After getting too comfortable with receiving pink slips from radio stations Ce Ce became a Flight Attendant for a major airline. In her family lineage, there were many gifted psychic, healers and mediums. As a result, it took little effort for her to awaken her spiritual gifts.

At a young age, she was aware of her psychic abilities and she was often scolded for knowing things a child shouldn't know. Her raw, uncensored style of doing readings put her in a league of her own. Ce Ce is able to see who or what's in the way of an individual living their divine self. Often organized religion and family members are the main culprits that prohibit people from love, health, success and happiness.

She is a true transformational healer.

She is a captivating public speaker and her words help people shift from their old selves because her words match her action. She speaks from her heart and gut. Her balls to tell stories about her own darkness and her confidence to celebrate her light makes others feel comfortable about expressing their own inner light and darkness.

When one makes a marriage of their light and dark selves they can become whole. Ce Ce believes there's much power, growth, and transformation in our dark selves which is also known as our shadow selves. In our need to be 'good' we deny that part of ourselves we think is 'bad.'

She says our shadow self is our best friend. When we hug our shadows out of love for showing us truth, our light becomes blinding and piercing.

Her bestselling book, TRUMP...Divine Intervention or Not? is available on amazon.com

Her soon to be released books are, "Buy Your Own Damn Cocktail," a memoir about her journey from a gun toting, mafia loving, gold digger to a divine healer and "My Letter To President Trump—Letters from citizens taking responsibility to Make America Great Again."

She's a captivating, knowledgeable, fun and witty speaker who enjoys speaking about politics, sex, religion, spirituality and relationships.
